AgCertain Expands Specialty Oil Processing Capabilities

Ames, Iowa — AgCertain Industries, Inc. has announced a further expansion of its specialty oil processing capabilities following the successful upgrade of systems in 2023. This high-flexibility expansion across all commercial oil processing lines is driven by AgCertain's proven ability to process a diverse array of high-performance and identity-preserved oils, alongside increasing market demand.

Over the past year, AgCertain has validated the processing of more than two dozen oils, ranging from sensitive biotech-generated oils to robust high oleic and omega-rich oils, demonstrating the versatility and responsiveness of its refining systems. This expansion allows AgCertain to better serve customers in food, nutraceutical, cosmetic, and bio-based markets.

"Our customers are seeking dependable, United States-based partners with the technical capability to process a wide range of specialty oils," said Veronica Phillips, Director, Sales & Procurement at AgCertain. "Our increased capabilities strengthen our ability to deliver consistent, high-quality results supported by strong documentation, responsive service, and flexible logistics."

AgCertain's facilities offer a broad range of refining services, including degumming, bleaching, dewaxing, and deodorization, with the ability to handle oils with a wide range of free fatty acid content. The company also provides small-batch processing for high-value oils, enabling flexible production for customers with unique, specialty needs.

This expansion reinforces AgCertain's commitment to operational excellence, with each processing campaign supported by a highly trained team who ensures process validation, QA documentation, and regulatory compliance.

In addition to strong QC and analytical capabilities, AgCertain also continues to provide comprehensive logistics support; capable of handling everything from drum and flexi-tank shipments to rail car volumes to ensure timely delivery and scalability for customers across the United States.

AgCertain's turnkey process, beginning with the receipt of raw materials and continuing through to final delivery, ensures a product that is compliant, fully traceable, and ready for immediate use.
